Faculty of Agriculture University Putra Malaysia

The Faculty of Agriculture is one of three founding faculties of Universiti Pertanian Malaysia (now known as Universiti Putra Malaysia) in 1971. The faculty began with seven (7) departments and has become the basis for the establishment of several other faculties in the development process by developing the department to become an independent faculty. The restructuring exercise at the Universiti Putra Malaysia which began on January 1, 1999, also involved the Faculty of Agriculture.

The restructuring exercise at the faculty was based on the concept of unification or integration of the key elements in the agricultural system namely crops, soil, livestock, agribusiness, technology, and fisheries. Based on this concept, the Faculty of Agriculture now comprises seven (7) departments, namely (1) the Department of Crop Science, (2) the Department of Plant Protection, (3) the Department of Land Management, (4) Department of Animal Science, (5) Department of Agribusiness and Biosource Economics, (6) Department of Agricultural Technology and (7) Department of Aquaculture.

Along with the national education goals, the Faculty of Agriculture always strives to produce trained agricultural experts, entrepreneurial characteristics and able to conduct consultations to the community to ensure the sustainability of agriculture, while creating new agricultural technology, as a result of quality program structure, research spirit and commercialization of agricultural products.

International Agriculture Students Symposium (IASS)

International Agriculture Students Symposium (IASS) is a biennial international program hosted by Faculty of Agriculture, Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM) since 2009. It provided a great opportunity for students worldwide to gather and exchange their perspectives and ideas on food and agriculture issues in the world.

In the year of 2023, while the world is recovering from the COVID-19 pandemic, Faculty of Agriculture, Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM) is organizing 'The 7th International Agriculture Students Symposium (7th IASS)' to provide local and international students from our global partner universities with a physical platform to gather and exchange knowledge related to agriculture and also discuss their roles in food security with the theme as followed:-

"Youth Involvement and Innovation for Food Security"

Activities in 7th IASS

Symposium

Abstract Presentation | Poster Presentation

Each presenter is allocated 20 minutes to give an oral presentation of their research. An additional 10 minutes will be utilized for a Q&A session. Poster presentations are given 3 minutes to present in front of the judges. For further details, please contact our liaison.

Study & Cultural Trips

Participants will be exposed to the on-site experience of a Malaysian agricultural production area. This first-hand experience is important for participants to gain a better understanding of the practices done aside from their home country's. After all, experience is the best teacher.

Cultural Performance

With so many students from various countries, it is a great opportunity for each of us to showcase our culture to one another. As such, participants are highly encouraged to display their home country's traditional performances. If you are interested, please contact our liaison for further details.
